

MURDER TRIAL RECORD OF 887 PAGES IS FILED

The stenographic record of the drawing of the jury and the trial of Ray H. Simmons, Mechanicsburg, in Adams county court here on a charge of murder for the death of Herbert L. Humpert, 70-year-old Gardner, R. D. farmer, was filed shortly before 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the office of the clerk of the courts. A motion for a new trial is pending.

The record is in four large folios, typewritten, each one approximately an inch and a half in thickness, and was filed by Mrs. Annabelle Little, Gettysburg, court stenographer, who took the statements of both Simmons and Robert L. Staley and the records of their trials.

The first volume of the record of the Simmons trial contains an index and pages 4 to 190. The second volume has pages 191 to 373, and both volumes are the record of the examination of jurors.

Volumes 3 and 4 are the record of the trial itself. Volume 3 has pages 374 to 642 and volume 4 pages 643 to 887.

Simmons was found guilty by a jury of murder in the first degree, with the death penalty, on May 6, 1947. Trial began with the examination of jurors on April 30. Staley was tried later and found guilty of murder in the second degree. He was given a life sentence.

FAIRFIELD ROAD WILL BE CLOSED BY BRIDGE WORK

When work is started on the construction of a new bridge over Marsh Creek, on the Fairfield road, to replace the 5-span, "camel-back" stone arch structure, traffic will be diverted over the Lincoln highway west to Cashtown and rural route 01001 to near Fairfield, the highway department announced today.

The new structure will require 167,600 pounds of steel, 38,693 pounds of steel bars and 37,041 feet of guard fence. The contract also includes 100,031 cubic yards of excavation and 44,775 cubic yards of fill.

The bridge will have three 50-foot spans and a roadway 30 feet wide. The present bridge roadway is 15 feet. The existing approaches are 18 feet wide, of macadam. The new approaches of 117 miles of bituminous surface will be 22 feet wide. There will be a 10-inch crushed stone base with a two and one-quarter inch bituminous surface. The paving will require 14,726 square yards of surface material.

Properties affected by the improvements are owned by Kenneth D. Bream, John R. Gaston, Frank W. Redding, the Bessie Eberhart estate, Frantz Martin and Beulah I. Flinn.

CHURCH HONORS FORMER PASTOR

St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church, New Oxford, the Rev. Archie C. Rohrbaugh, pastor, will dedicate a window Sunday, to the honor of the Rev. Dr. William A. Korn, Lancaster. The Rev. Dr. Dobbs Ehlman, former pastor and associate secretary of the Board of International Missions of the Evangelical and Reformed church, will be the preacher for the service.

The occasion for the window dedication is the 35th anniversary of the laying of the corner-stone of the present building. The present edifice was the third to be erected by St. Paul's congregation, and was erected during the pastorate of Doctor Korn. The corner-stone was laid July 28, 1912, and the dedication ceremonies were conducted on Palm Sunday, March 16, 1913. The beautiful white limestone edifice cost originally about $20,000, but it is now worth almost three times that figure.

Dr. Korn Pastor 1907-1914
Doctor Korn was pastor of the New Oxford charge from 1907-1914, following which he was pastor of St. John's church, Orwigsburg. In 1920 he was appointed to the staff of the Theological seminary, Lancaster, where he served as secretary to the president until his retirement in 1944.

Doctor Ehlman was pastor of the New Oxford charge from 1940 to 1945. In March of 1945 he resigned to accept an appointment as associate secretary of the Board of International Missions of the Evangelical and Reformed church. During last autumn and early winter, Doctor Ehlman travelled extensively in China and Japan making a survey of the missionary situation of the church. For two years following his graduation from Central Theological seminary, Dayton, Ohio, he and Mrs. Ehlman were missionaries in both China and Japan.

Polio Strikes Douglas Wentz

Douglas Wentz, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wentz, Baltimore street, has been removed to the Harrisburg hospital for contagious diseases after being stricken with poliomyelitis.

Dr. H. F. Harbach, local physician who diagnosed the case, said the child had been ill about 24 hours when he was removed Wednesday night to Harrisburg. The doctor added that no paralysis had occurred.

The case is the first in Gettysburg this summer.

Littlestown TWO NAMED ON LITTLESTOWN HEALTH BOARD

William V. Sneeringer was reappointed to the Littlestown Borough Authority board for a term of five years by the town council at its monthly meeting Tuesday night. Dr. Leonard L. Potter and Luke H. Jacobs were appointed to serve on the board of health for five years. Dr. Potter's term dates back to July 1, 1945, and Mr. Jacobs' term, a re-appointment, from July 1, 1947.

The street committee brought to the attention of council various conditions existing throughout the town, and the street commissioner was notified to investigate and remedy the conditions at the following places: Drain or culvert at Edward P. Hawk property on East King street; storm sewer located about Floyd Study property on East King street; curb box and drain, northwest corner of Park avenue; grate for storm sewer at Boyer street; crossing at Charles street, entrance from South Queen street, to be cemented, and several places along West King street. The street commissioner was also authorized to remove a locust tree at the southwest corner of Maple avenue and Locust street.

Must Trim Trees
The secretary read a communication from J. William Kendlehart, Jr., state highway superintendent for Adams county, which stated that it was the request of the district forester to have the borough officials provide necessary tree clearance, etc., which included traffic signs, traffic light sight distance and sight distances on vertical curves and at all intersecting routes, roads, or drives. "The Motor Vehicle Code, Section 902-B, permits operation of high trucks and vans, having a vertical height of 174 inches or 14 feet, six inches," he wrote.

The letter further stated that "this gives the trucker or truckers' association the right to bring damage suits against the borough officials for damages to their trucks if there is not enough of overhead clearance for these 14 feet, six-inch high vans and trucks. This law covers all routes in the state of Pennsylvania."

Council unanimously agreed that all property holders having shade trees adjacent to the streets, should be notified to trim or have trimmed all limbs to a vertical height of 15 feet from the curb, and any property owner not complying with the order, the borough shall do the necessary trimming and charge the costs, plus 10 per cent, to the property owner.

The secretary informed council that numerous valves on the water system throughout the town were in need of replacement and in some cases the valves were obsolete and no longer manufactured. In some (Please Turn to Page 7)

Study Atomic Energy For Use Against Cancer; Aid Industry

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Here's an outline of what this country is doing at this time in American history with atomic energy.

You, an ordinary citizen, can't imagine it all. Few people can, unless they're high in the government or are scientists.

The work is too huge, too scattered, too complicated, too scientific. And much of it is being done behind closed doors.

The outline given here is pretty sketchy because there still is so much secrecy surrounding the development of atomic energy.

It is pieced together from the report which the government's Atomic Energy Commission made to Congress last night.

This commission, which makes such a report twice a year, is the boss of atomic energy and everything connected with it in this country.

Make Bigger Bombs

And the commission isn't telling everything, by a long sight.

But first of all: New and bigger and better (or worse) atomic bombs are being made.

The government will continue to do this until it reaches—if it reaches—agreement with other nations on controlling atomic bomb-making.

Somewhere in the Pacific it is setting up "proving grounds" for testing atomic weapons and experimenting with them.

This country is out in front now with the atomic bomb, and it's trying to stay there. The commission says:

"To rely on existing knowledge alone could be disastrous."

So the government is pouring huge sums into trying to learn more about atomic energy and how to use it, for war and peace.

For the fiscal year starting July 1 and ending next June 30, the government will spend probably more than $500,000,000 on atomic work.

Use Against Cancer

Here's one quick example of something the government is trying to find out now: Can atomic energy make planes fly or drive warships?

Scattered around the United States, the government has 41,500 people working on atomic projects, of one kind or another.

It is trying to get scientists, administrators and engineers of first rate ability but the commission says they're "relatively few in number."

Besides the job of keeping ahead with knowledge of making atomic weapons, the government is tackling this double job:

1. Trying to find a way helping industry and communities with atomic power. This is a long-range job. It won't be done overnight.
2. Seeking discoveries for medical use, such as in cancer treatment.

Java Port Falls To Dutch

By STANLEY SWINTON

Batavia, Java, July 24 (AP)—Cheribon, important northwest Java port, has fallen to a Dutch tank attack, but Indonesian Republicans declared today they had turned back a strong Dutch drive on their capital of Jogjakarta and now were closing in on the north Java port of Semarang.

A Dutch army communique announced the capture of Cheribon. The Indonesian radio said the Dutch used a striking force of 50 tanks in an assault yesterday afternoon against the port, birthplace of the Indonesian independence agreement. These forces, the broadcast said, bypassed Smedang and Kadipaten.

An Indonesian army communique said Republican forces in the east-central sector had seized Modjokerto, on the outer rim of the Dutch perimeter around the once-powerful naval base of Soerabaja. This was one of the areas held by the Dutch before the outbreak of hostilities Sunday. Modjokerto is 28 miles southwest of Soerabaja.

The Modjokerto action apparently was an attempt by the Republicans to harass Dutch forces driving on the stronghold of Malang. The Indonesian communique said the drive had been halted 35 miles southeast of the city.

The Indonesian objective in central Java appeared to be cut off Semarang as a base for Dutch armored spearheads driving on Jogjakarta. Indonesian news reports said the Dutch had withdrawn more than 10 miles and that Teontang, highway junction south of Semarang, had been recaptured by the Republicans.

The Dutch denied the drive on Jogjakarta was halted.

Gunfire Blazes In Holy Land

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, July 24 (AP)—Gunmen and British troops exchanged fire today at the gate of a security zone in Jerusalem, touching off alarm sirens and halting traffic for 45 minutes.

An unofficial report said the attackers arrived in a taxi, fired four times with a Bren gun and escaped towards the Jewish quarters as troops returned the fire. No casualties were reported.

The attack was the latest in a long series since the British turned back toward France the 4,500 Jews intercepted on the SS President Warfield, also called the Exodus of 1947. It occurred within a few yards of the Jewish agency and the Goldsmith Officers' club, which previously had been wrecked by a bomb.

Six men were reported by a reliable informant to have robbed a Tel Aviv diamond merchant's office of $40,000 in cut and uncut stones at noon. A similar robbery and another $40,000 haul occurred yesterday. The informant said members of the underground Stern gang, seeking funds for further operations against the British, were known to be operating diamond polishing shops in private houses and selling the products in Europe.

Jewish quarters of Jerusalem were under a dusk to dawn curfew.

The alarm was the 10th in more than a week of attacks which have left 10 dead and 73 wounded. Two Jews were reported killed and one wounded seriously today in a battle with Arabs near the Jewish colony of Magdief, northeast of Tel Aviv.

Congress To Adjourn Saturday

Washington, July 24 (AP)—Republican Congressional leaders decided today to adjourn the first session of the 80th Congress on Saturday, July 26, subject to possible recall by Republican leaders.

The decision was made at a meeting of Senate and House leaders in the office of House Speaker Martin. Under the proposal agreed on, Congress can be recalled during the fall adjournment period by the speaker and the Republican leader of the House and the president pro-tem and majority leader of the Senate.

Without that proviso in the adjournment resolution, only President Truman could recall Congress into special session once it adjourned. Announcement of the decision was made by Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee.

Unless recalled before then, the lawmakers will reassemble on January 6.

Congress frequently adjourned subject to recall by its own leaders during the war years.

Taft said no new major legislative proposals were discussed but it was agreed to push through resolutions providing for studies of prices and the housing situation by joint Congressional committees.

HAAS SUMS UP YORK SPRINGS SCHOOL STATUS

The school situation in York Springs continued in a state of flux today with residents of the area receiving little comfort from a letter sent to Representative Francis Worley in regard to a recent meeting between a York Springs committee and Dr. Francis B. Haas, state superintendent of Public Instruction at Harrisburg.

The letter, sent by Doctor Haas following the meeting states: "You will recall that at the conference which I had with you and members of the York Springs board, I told you that I would be glad to review the situation and give my opinion. This I have done and the situation as I understand it, is as follows:

"The number of pupils in the area served by the York Springs high school does not justify a full complement of teachers required to offer a complete secondary school program.

"Can't Order Reorganization
"The possibility of enlarging the attendance area appears to be very remote. I am advised that this question was discussed fully at a meeting of the superintendents of Adams, York and Cumberland counties with representatives of the York Springs board and members of our staff.

"This department lacks authority to require a reorganization of attendance areas which might increase the enrollment in the York Springs high school. The question of retaining the York Springs high (Please turn to Page 2)

HOSPITAL HAS CASE RECORDS MICROFILMED

With the microfilming of old records at the Warner hospital here, 45 cartons of case histories, each carton measuring 12 x 12 x 24 inches, and weighing 40 pounds each, have been reduced to 45 rolls of film weighing only seven ounces each.

In place of the cumbersome and space-eating boxes of record files, each box of film measures only four inches square and one inch in thickness. The entire patient records of the hospital from the day it was opened in 1921 down to March, 1942, are contained now in a small filing case.

Not only is the microfilm system a great space saver, but it also greatly facilitates the reference to old records. These records, in letter-size cards, in the cumbersome cartons, were stored in the garage at the hospital. When a record was needed, it was necessary to send someone to the garage to pull out the heavy boxes until the right one was found. If the box sought happened to be on the bottom, not only much labor, but considerable time was consumed.

133,000 Pictures

Eight high school pupils worked for several days at the hospital sorting the old records. Then they were sent by truck to Altoona, Pa., where the filming was done. It took two weeks to do this work, and 133,000 separate "pictures" were made, covering records of 19,000 patients.

Each 100-foot roll of film contains 300 charts. Each chart averages seven pages. They are indexed by the patient's number.

The records were sent to Altoona June 1. To read them from the microfilm, a "reader" is necessary. This was installed and placed in operation Wednesday.

Later on the remaining records at the hospital will be brought up to date on film, and the hospital plans to have its records microfilmed yearly, at an estimated cost of about $50 a year. The filming thus far done cost one-third of a cent per picture.

The work was done by the Pennsylvania Photo-Recording Service, Altoona.

Cherry Pickers Set High Daily Record

Itinerant cherry pickers from the Winter Haven section of Florida are carrying off picking honors in county cherry orchards, according to C. H. Musselman company records. Two Floridians, A. L. Chappel and John Yarbrough, are credited with having picked 74 eight-quart buckets in a single day. Yarbrough's son, William, picked 72 quarts. These men work at the Blue Ribbon orchard.

At the Musselman company's Cherry Blossom orchard, top records have been turned in by Owen Coble and Delmar Kline, both of York Springs. Each picked 71 buckets in a day.

Candidates Have 3 Days To Withdraw

Next Monday, July 28, will be the last day for persons whose petitions were filed at the county election commissioners' office for the September 9 primary election, to withdraw. It is also the last day for filing objections to nominating petitions.

August 20 will be the last day for filling vacancies created by declinations or objections, and August 27 the last day to file objections to vacancies filled.

In cases involving objection to nominations, September 4 is the last day for the court to render decisions.

September 4 is the last day an elector, who wishes to vote at the general election on November 4, may move from one district to another. The first day after the primaries to register for a vote in the general election, is September 15, and the last day September 29.

Cumberland Township Patrons Favor Meeting With Gettysburg Board To Send Students Here

The Cumberland township school board was directed by the residents of the township, meeting at Barlow Wednesday night, to meet with the Gettysburg school board, as soon as possible, to determine whether the 141 students in the Cumberland elementary schools can enter the Gettysburg schools this fall.

That decision was reached by a 41 to 24 vote of the townships' taxpayers after a session characterized by lengthy debate in which both patrons and school board members took part and which led one female patron to inquire:

"We had so much fun at this meeting, why can't we all meet with the Gettysburg school board instead of just our school board meeting with them?"

That remark came after several speakers, while disclaiming any lack of confidence in the school board, suggested that some of the tax payers accompany the board to the joint meeting.

Do Not Distrust Board

"It is not that we distrust the school board," one patron said, "but we feel that the board is not so highly interested that it will push the idea. We believe that the board will be content to receive a 'no' answer from Gettysburg without attempting to put up an argument."

The meeting had been called to discuss the question of whether the schools should remain as they are with eight grades in each school.

Charles E. Curley, Gettysburg R. 3, who argued for those in favor of sending the children to Gettysburg and Emory Fox, school board secretary, discussed at some length whether a motion to instruct the school board to investigate the possibilities of sending the children to Gettysburg was proper.

Discuss Legality

Fox held that the meeting was called to consider the question of grading and that therefore the matter of sending the children to Gettysburg could not be discussed.

Curley then moved that the minutes of the last meeting of the school board be read "so that we may know just what this meeting was called for." The only notice he had had was through the newspapers, he said, and in that account it was mentioned that Gettysburg was discussed as a possible solution to the township's school problems.

When Secretary Fox again voiced his opinion that Gettysburg could not be discussed as a possibility, Curley suggested that the meeting be adjourned and another meeting be called immediately to discuss the question of sending the youngsters to Gettysburg.

President Howard Waybright then pointed out that since the meeting actually was called to consider the ideas of the general public on school questions, and since the apparent attitude was in favor of a discussion of Gettysburg the motion should be permitted to stand.

'PRIVATE ARMY' SLAYS SUSPECT IN U SAW DEATH

By DOUGLAS LACKERSTEEN

Rangoon, Burma, July 24 (AP)—A man suspected of taking part in the assassination of U Aung San and six other members of the Burma executive council was disclosed today to have been shot to death by members of Aung San's "private army."

He lay on a marble slab in the Pegu hospital morgue.

Official sources said the suspect was San Yan Naung, 30, a former member of the Fifth battalion of the Burma defense army which Aung San commanded against the Japanese. He also had been an officer in the Galon army commanded by former Premier U Saw, who was arrested soon after the assassinations, officials said.

Arrests Continue

Arrests of leaders of the opposition Myochit party, which U Saw led, continued. Upward of 200 were reported in custody. Among the latest jailed was Ba Yinon described as U Saw's right hand man. He was with U Saw at the time the British arrested him in the war on charges of collaborating with the Japanese.

Aung Tha, member of the Myochit executive, and Pe Sein, former party secretary, were arrested in Rangoon.

Aung San and his slain colleagues were the de facto government leaders of Burma, currently about to achieve independence from Britain. They belonged to the dominant anti-Fascist People's Freedom League.

Shot in Escape Attempt

Members of the people's volunteer organization of the AFPFL, which was described as Aung San's "private army," flushed the murder suspect from his hideout in Dalku, 90 miles north of Rangoon, on the night of the machinegun killings in the council chamber at Rangoon July 19.

San Yan Naung had sought refuge in the top floor of a printing establishment. He was reported to have had with him a personal diary, containing complete plans for the assassination of the government leaders and names of his colleagues. One report said a "high Burmese personage" was named in the diary as the murder instigator.

As his captors were moving him by automobile to Rangoon, San Yan Naung was said to have made a "leap for life" when the car slowed for a steep grade ten miles south of Pegu. His captors gave chase and shot him to death.

Truman Not Ready To Fill New Post

Washington, July 24 (AP)—President Truman said today he is not ready to say who will be named Secretary of National Defense to head the unified armed forces.

Legislation completing the unification procedure is before Congress. It will set up the Army, Navy and Air Forces as separate branches of service. Each branch will have a secretary but over-all supervision will be under the Secretary of National Defense, who will have cabinet rank.

Mr. Truman was asked at a news conference whether Secretary of the Navy Forrestal is in line to become defense secretary.

He replied that he hadn't heard anything about that, but he would let the reporters know when he is ready to announce his choice.

Senate-House conferees reached agreement last night on a compromise version of the unification measure, including "safeguards" for the Marine corps and Naval aviation.

Casualty Rate On Airlines Doubled

Washington, July 24 (AP)—The January-June passenger fatality rate for scheduled domestic airlines more than doubled this year, preliminary Civil Aeronautics Board figures show today.

Tentative calculations indicate that 5.8 passengers died for every 100,000 passenger-miles flown. (One passenger carried one mile represents one passenger-mile.)

During the same period of 1946 the rate was 2.3 deaths, although for the full year it was only 1.2.

Making the figures available to a reporter, a CAB official described them privately as conservative, which means that final reports on airline traffic for the six months may lower the fatality rate somewhat.

The CAB record shows that 150 revenue-paying passengers died in four airline crashes up to July 1. In the same period a year ago passenger deaths totaled 52, also in four crashes.

WORLD GROUP MAY BUY GRAIN

Washington, July 24 (AP)—President Truman said today that a world trade organization to buy grain for distribution under the Marshall European recovery plan is under consideration.

The President made this statement at a news conference when questioned about Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's proposal for such an organization.

Mr. Truman also said that he has no plans for domestic controls over wheat and corn.

The so-called "Marshall Plan," first announced by Secretary of State Marshall, is the United States' offer to help European nations get on their feet economically if they work out plans to do what they can on their own.

On the matter of domestic controls over grain, Mr. Truman said those mentioned in his recent economic message to Congress had to do with export and transportation controls which might be necessary to get grains to port cities for shipment abroad.

Things Of The Soil

Random Facts About Pansies—Perhaps no ornamental is better suited for the cultural limitations of beginners in flower growing than the attractive pansy. Growers need not be confused among the various names of pansy, viola and violet. The pansy is an improved strain believed to have been developed from Viola tricolor. It was cultivated even before Shakespeare's time, thus giving it rank among the earliest of cultivated ornamentals. At that time and in some parts of this country even up to a generation ago, pansies were known as Heartsease or Heartease. This common name derived from the French "pensee," meaning thought or from the Latin "pensare," to weigh. Students who wish to keep their botanical records straight may consider the native wild violet in this part of the country as Viola papilionacea, although the localized name Johnny-Jump-Up is believed to apply to Viola pedata or Viola tricolor.

Pansies are perennials, although they may be treated as annuals and grown to flower from spring-sown seed each year. However, seed sown in late July or early August produces plants which bring their full glory of blooms in early spring. Many experienced growers sow seed at this time of the year for early flowers and then sow seed of special varieties or some of the marvelous improved hybrids in late winter indoors or in hotbeds and later move the plants to their growing place for summer flowering. Still others wait and sow seed directly where the plants are to grow, preferably as early as soil can be easily worked in spring.

Two general facts apply to sowing pansy seed in late July and early August for early spring flowers. First, fresh seed of unquestioned quality should be purchased; next, plants should be carried over winter in a well drained, sheltered bed beneath a covering of small brush or evergreen boughs over which straw or leaves is applied. Of course, this much should not be applied until after the ground is frozen in late November or early December.

The editor has a bed of pansies started this spring by transplanting over-wintered plants. These plants have been blooming continuously for over four months. As this is written they average eight blossoms to each clump. This sustained production is partly attributed to keeping faded flowers removed and to the plants enjoying a deep, fertile loam in a location where there is partial shade during the hottest part of the day.

Few other ornamentals pay such big dividends for well prepared soils as do pansies. One of the better ways to get ready for pansies, that is, for transplanting in late fall or early spring, is to compost together old sod chopped finely, well pulverized cow manure gathered from pasture fields where it has weathered, fertile loam and some sand if the mixture is not light. A little lime may be added for alkaline safety. The seed bed may be merely a fine light loam.

Pansy seed should not be covered deeply but the bed surface should be firm and kept moist. Even a few hours of dryness after seed germinates or any time before plants are well established may prove fatal. A mulch shade is advisable for the first few weeks. Seed germinates in 8 to 12 days.

Feeding Poultry In Summer

Soaring corn prices will certainly soon be reflected in ready-mixed poultry feed costs. The question logically comes to the poultryman's mind—How can feeding expenses be reduced or held in line with revenues from the flock? Of course, this and many other related questions revolve around sound and profitable summer feeding practices.

First, particularly for the benefit of small flock owners, the idea of letting laying hens "shift for themselves" in summer is wholly without defense. If this course is even partly necessary, it is wiser to sell off the flock and keep no poultry at all. No where can a laying hen possibly find for herself the nutrients needed to nourish her body, protect her health and manufacture eggs from feeds she can locate on the range. Just as a few examples, where can she obtain the equivalent of meat scrap, dried milk, fish meal, bone-meal, salt, ground limestone or protein concentrates? And without these to balance her ration, the layer will produce few eggs.

Next, hens need plenty of fresh water furnished in comfortable surroundings during hot weather. And it must not be overlooked that drinking receptacles are more likely to become sources of disease and internal parasite dangers in hot weather than in winter. Sanitary drinking containers should be placed in inviting shade where hens will not have far to travel to reach drink frequently. Their consumption needs of water are high in hot weather. They should not be compelled to drink polluted, warm water from insanitary containers located in the hot sun. A layer of coarse gravel under and around the receptacle will reduce parasite dangers.

In efforts to increase the consumption of home-grown feeds in poultry rations, flock owners must necessarily turn to the inclusion of more liquid skim milk and buttermilk. Here certain difficulties are encountered. Liquid milk attracts flies and these in turn may induce tapeworm infestation. Milk ferments soon and receptacles become insanitary, often in a few hours. Here are a few general suggestions on milk feeding:

Liquid milk may take the place of dried milk in mash at the rate of 1½ gallons for every 1 pound of dried milk omitted from 100 pounds of commercial mash. For example, if the mash contained 6 pounds of dried milk per 100 pounds of mash, 9 gallons of liquid milk should be fed while hens are consuming 100 pounds of grain rations.

Feeding containers for milk should be moved to a new location each day and, of course, they should be washed carefully before filling. If any wet mash is fed, milk should be used in the place of water for mixing.

It is safer to furnish hens small quantities of fresh skim milk or buttermilk several times a day than a large quantity once a day.

As more home-grown feeds take the place of commercial feed mixtures, more attention is necessary to see that hens get a suitable supplement of protein vitamin concentrate. Corn, wheat, oats, barley, skim milk, buttermilk and similar home-produced feeds, regardless of how much the hen consumes, do not furnish her the ingredients needed to nourish her body properly and leave a suitable residue for egg manufacture.

And as the annual molting season approaches it is well to remember that new dresses of feathers are not produced by any form of avian miracle. They are grown solely from feeds.

HAAS SUMS UP

The group had met with Doctor Haas as part of the borough's battle to keep the high school here and to improve the present instructional facilities at the school.

Last year the high school had 75 students and 17 graduated this spring. School board members, noting that 43 students in the area took the annual eighth grade examination are hoping that enough new students will enter this year to bring the enrollment to 100.

With 100 students the high school would have enough students to obtain reimbursement for more than four teachers this coming year, but not quite enough for five teachers. The school hopes to add a commercial department this year with either a full time or part time teacher, and thus continue in operation.

Add Grade Pupils

Meantime the York Springs board has agreed to take seventh and eighth grade students from neighboring townships with the result that about 75 seventh and eighth graders are expected to go to school there this fall. The board is attempting to secure two rooms above the bank building, formerly used by the high school, as class rooms for the seventh and eighth graders.

Lattimore township is planning to close three schools, Harbold's, State Road and Two Churches and send 18 seventh and eighth graders to East Berlin junior high and the 17 seventh and eighth graders in the lower part of the township to York Springs. Mechanicsville, Plainfield and Blackberry schools will be kept open in the township this year.

Huntington township is also considering sending its seventh and eighth graders to York Springs. It has about 35 in the two grades.

"Not Responsible For Wife's Debts"

A young man came rushing into the Clarion office the other day and wanted me to print an ad—"Right quick"—saying he won't be responsible for his wife's debts from now on, as he's leaving her for good immediately.

I allowed as how the forms were all closed up, and it was too late to take his ad. He says: "All right, Monday then"—and we agreed on Monday.

Of course, the forms weren't closed. But I had kind of an inkling of what might happen. Then Sunday he phones me, and says, kind of sheepishly: "You can forget that ad. Me and the missus have everything all patched up. And we're having a friendly glass of beer, right now."

From where I sit, if you give folks time enough to think things over, those hasty quarrels that come so often from misunderstanding will give way to tolerance and common sense.

NAME PLAYERS FOR SOFTBALL BENEFIT TILT

Eighteen players from the seven other teams in the Community Softball League have been picked to battle the Highway ten in the series to be held for the benefit of the injured players in the league.

W. E. "Johnny" Knox, Michael Tate and Harold Arnold, the committee named by the league to pick out the "all-team" outfit to meet the Highwaymen, announced their selections today.

Pitchers for the composite ten will be Ross Sachs, of the Texas Lunch team; George Houck, Moose; Dale Felix, Knox's and Clyde Little, Acme.

The other players include Don Baker, Moose; Don McSherry, Moose; Bill Ogden, Texas Lunch; "Tub" Small, Knox's; Richard Culp, Legion; Ray Staley, Acme; Fred Rogers, Evans; Roger Herr, Elks; Mike Tate, Elks; Dick Heintzelman, Texas Lunch; Ed Shoop, Acme; Ben Little, Knox's; Bud Anzenberger, Legion, and Junior Walters, Evans.

The teams will clash for the first game of a best-of-three series August 4. The next game will be played August 6 and if the third is needed August 7 will be the date.

Johnny Knox, who was selected to manage the composite squad said today that he "has never managed a losing team in a playoff yet." The Highway team simply points to the record—21 straight wins so far without a loss.

And everybody hopes the games will prove an outstanding attraction and will bring in a large amount of money to help the men, who during the season, have suffered injuries while playing. Tickets are soon to go on sale for the event at 25 cents, for the series.

Wilmington And York Split Pair

(By The Associated Press)

The Wilmington Blue Rocks were still in third place in the Interstate league today—four percentage points ahead of York—after splitting a twin bill with the White Roses.

Wilmington lost the opener 5-4 to York last night, but triumphed 8-4 in the nightcap after scoring seven runs in the first inning on eight consecutive singles.

The front-running Allentown Cardinals maintained their three-game lead over second-place Harrisburg by drubbing Sunbury, 11-8 Harrisburg, meantime, blanked Lancaster, 4-0.

In the only other game, Trenton edged the Hagerstown Owls 2-1 to move within one percentage point of the fifth-place losers. The Owls, who were tied for fourth with York before last night's games, fell to the second division.

New York, July 24 (P)—Carl Braun, pitcher for the Sunbury Yankees of the Interstate league, has signed a contract to play with the New York Knickerbockers of the Basketball Association of America, coach Joe Lapchick of the pro court team announces.

Oslo, July 24 (P)—Curtis Stone, Penn State track star, finished fourth in the 5,000-meters race at the opening of a three-day track and field meet here yesterday. Teams from the U. S., Sweden, Finland and Norway are entered.

Pittsburgh, July 24 (P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today picked off a young prospect from the sandlots of the immortal Hans Wagner's home town, signing Frank Thomas, 18, of Pittsburgh for 1948 delivery.

Thomas, a 185-pound, 6-foot, two-inch outfielder caught the Pirate talent scout's eye while performing for the Carnegie "Little Pirates," an amateur nine. Wagner, now a Pirate coach, got his start in the same area and rose to fame with the Buccos. He now imparts some fatherly advice to the "Little Bucs" and expressed belief Thomas "had it."

25TH HOMER BY KINER SETS NEW PIRATE RECORD

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

Ralph Kiner, who represents one of the few bright spots in the Pittsburgh Pirates' dismal doings this season, today had realized one of his three main ambitions and stood a fairly good chance to achieve the other two.

The hard-hitting Bucco outfielder, who during spring training announced he was out to lead the National league in home runs and runs batted in as well as set a new Pirate homer mark, walloped his 24th and 25th four-baggers of the campaign last night to break the Pittsburgh record held jointly by himself and Johnny Rizzo. Rizzo had smashed 23 round trippers in 1938 and Ralph duplicated the feat last year.

Kiner is the only last year's home run leader of the New York Giants who leads both majors with 28. He also is in the running for R.B.I. honors, having sent 67 runners over the plate to rank fourth behind New York's trio of Willard Marshall (75), Mize (73) and Walker Cooper (71).

Cards, Dodgers Win

The 24-year-old sophomore slugger from Santa Rita, New Mexico, batted in four runs last night to lead the Pirates to within a half game of seventh place.

Signs of an impending stretch fight for the National league flag between Brooklyn and St. Louis became more evident when both the Dodgers and Cardinals won their games, the Dodgers defeating the Reds at Cincinnati 5-2 and the Cards nipping the New York Giants in St. Louis 6-5.

Tied at 2-2 at the end of seven innings, the Brooks got out front when Eddie Miksis signed in Carl Furillo in the eighth inning. They added two more in the ninth.

Braves Beat Cubs

The "never say die" St. Louis Cardinals rallied for four runs in the bottom half of the ninth to come from behind and top the Giants. In whipping the New Yorkers for the eighth time in their last 10 meetings, the Cards shoved the Giants into third place and advanced to within a half game of the berth.

The runner-up Boston Braves remained five games behind the Dodgers by thrashing the Cubs in Chicago 12-4.

Lanky Ellis Kinder allowed only six hits and Willard Brown cracked four singles in five times at bat to lead the last place St. Louis Browns to an 8-2 victory over the American league leading New York Yankees at the Yankee stadium. Brown drove in three runs.

The Detroit Tigers lost a fine opportunity to whittle a game off the Yankees' 10½-game margin when they were shut out by the Washington Senators 5-0. Rae Scarborough scattered six hits for his third win. Freddy Hutchinson, who snapped the Yankees' 19-game winning streak last Friday, was banged for eight hits to suffer his fourth defeat. He has won eight.

The Boston Red Sox went 14 innings before finally besting the Chicago White Sox 8-7 in a night game at Fenway Park. A perfectly executed squeeze bunt by Don Gutteridge with the bases loaded and one out sent in the winning run.

A three-run homer by Eddie Joost in the sixth inning provided the Philadelphia Athletics with a 6-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians in a night game at Philadelphia. In a battle between two no-run, no-hit pitchers, Dick Fowler bested Don Black to gain his seventh win.

Hogan Loses Lead In Vardon Rating

Columbus, O., July 24 (P)—Little Ben Hogan, the year's No. 1 money winner, lost first place in the Vardon cup ratings by passing up the Canadian open to play a few exhibitions—but he has a chance to scoot back into the lead in the $10,000 Columbus open this week-end.

As of now, Ed (Porky) Oliver is the No. 1 man in the low-strokes-per-round competition in which the best average gets the Vardon trophy at the end of the year.

Porky, for 48 rounds of tournament play, has used up 3356 strokes for an average just a mite under 69.92. Hogan, for 52 rounds, has fired 3635 shots for a 69.93 mark, just one-hundredth of a point back of Oliver.

Hogan was on hand, but Oliver

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 24 (P)—While the Yankees (baseball) are breezing along towards a pennant, Ray Flaherty is making plans for the Yankees (football) to do the same thing.

At least, he says, they're going to make a strong effort to catch up with the Cleveland Browns, who ran away from the other all-American conference teams last season. . . . Ray has two good reasons for entertaining such hopes—Frankie Sinkwich and Buddy Young. . . . Sinkwich, overweight and troubled by a knee injury, has been working out in Georgia since last spring and is down to 190 pounds. When Frank is good, he's very good and he'll give the Yankees an experienced passer, something they didn't have last year. . . . As for Young, he only weighs 170 pounds but he's only 5-foot-5. Says Ray: "If he was a six footer he'd weigh about 210. And he's harder to tackle because he's so close to the ground. Buddy can go through the middle and then run away from the secondaries." . . . As for support for this pair, Flaherty reports he has 22 tackle and guards whose weight averages better than 225 pounds per man.

FAMILY TREE

Claude "Big Monk" Simmons put Tulane university on the athletic map as trainer and coach of nearly every sport for a 24-year period. . . . His son, "Little Monk," a four-letter winner and star halfback in 1934, went on to become Tulane's athletic director. . . . And now it's eight-year-old "Chipmunk" Simmons who is winning athletic honors. . . . The third of the "Monk" series won a trophy as "best all around athlete and sportsman" in a test at his New Orleans school. . . . Would you say Chipmunk is aping the older monks?

HANK TEACHES 'ENEMY' TO BAT

Pittsburgh, July 24 (P)—Hank

Greenberg is batting a pallid 260 for the Pittsburgh Pirates but there's such robust respect for his slugging savvy among the National league "hitters' union" that even the "enemy" wheedles tips from the big guy.

One reason might be the job Hank has done on his own team-mate, Ralph Kiner, who knocked out his 24th and 25th home runs of the season last night to set a new Pirate record. Kiner himself freely credits Greenberg with making him a home run hitter.

"Hank sure helped me," Ralph said. "He taught me to shorten up my stance and smoothed out my swing."

That's why visiting players shake their heads in bewilderment when a small group of lightweights in the stands treated Greenberg to a few boos recently.

They choked on their jeers a second later as Hank belted one out of the park. He's that kind of a hitter. A pitcher may fool him but not for long or too often—even if he's now in his baseball playing dotage.

The Philadelphia Phillies make no secret of their admiration for Greenberg's "know how." Cy Perkins, coach of the team with which the Pirates are fighting for seventh place in the league, used his long friendship with Greenberg to prevail upon Hankus-Pankus to part with some of his knowledge.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

Thirteen wins, plus a timely assist from the Indianapolis Indians, made Wilkes-Barre's Mike Garcia the leading Eastern league pitcher today.

Mike chalked up his 13th victory, an 11-1 rout of Williamsport, last night right after the exit of Albany's Royce Lint, recalled yesterday by Indianapolis of the American Association. Lint had won 13 games for the Senators and lost five.

While the Barons were pounding three Williamsport pitchers for 14 hits, the Scranton Miners trounced Elmira, 15-3.

It was a big-hit night throughout the circuit. Hartford registered 17 safeties against Utica, but the league-leading Blue Sox triumphed, 8-7, on 14 singles.

Today's Talk

EXPRESSION

It is the duty, and indeed the God-given privilege of us all to be expressive. By look, voice, or act. It is the life of us all. If there is no expression there is no life. One simple expression in words has often carried a man's fame down the years into limitless history.

Said Stevenson: "There are not words enough in all Shakespeare to express the merest fraction of a man's experience in an hour." Ambrose Bierce wrote one of the greatest of American short stories, called "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge." Yet the entire story is confined to but the few seconds that elapsed at the time of a man's hanging during the Civil War.

We would dry up in mind and soul if we did not express ourselves. Expression is our outlet. Expression is breath and growth, as well. Nature in action. The bird, bursting forth in song, the animal romping and playing, or uttering its cry of expression, its happiness in being alive. The interesting personality is that one which expresses itself in a variety of ways and moods.

All about us are examples of expression. In books, works of art, useful utensils, and wondrous inventions are to be found the expression of men and women. The living touch of genius is to be noted.

I recently visited a home where the owner had taken great interest in his beautiful garden of flowers. I looked upon each pathway, each arrangement of beds, and upon all the many varieties of shrubs and flowers as an expression of himself, though he was a noted lawyer and a lover of books. Both he and his wife combined their love of expression in this unique garden of theirs.

Everything, it sometimes seems, shows in the face. Happiness, anger, confidence, joy, hope, pleasure, surprise, and many other expressions stand out like printed signs there. No words need be spoken. The mere expression speaks louder, and more pronouncedly, than words.

The aim of us all should be to express ourselves, in as honest a fashion as we know, regardless of others, and not to worry as to the result. The result will be all right.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Inner Serenity."

SUMMER COAT
I know the loveliest garment made—
One sometimes soiled, but never frayed,
Fashioned to size from hem to sleeve,
With skill few seamstresses achieve;
And shaped to glorify the charms
Of chubby legs and dimpled arms;
A robe as wondrous and as fair
As any princess may wear.
No fashion page of modern dress
Displays such simple loveliness;
No frock that gentle fingers sew
Such perfect artistry can show
Or gladden more the heart of man
Than does that summer coat of tan.
Which little girls just half-past two
Take on, and wear, the summer through.

Tex Rickard, who promoted the bout, was one of the witnesses to the film showing. He said that in his opinion the blow was a fair one in the pit of the stomach.

CONTROVERSY IN SENATE OVER MURDOCK'S CASE

Washington, July 24 (P)—A Senate controversy boiled today over the qualifications of former Democratic Senator Abe Murdock of Utah to serve on the enlarged National Labor Relations Board.

But Senator Ellender (D-La.) said he is confident Murdock would be confirmed despite objections raised to his appointment because he voted against restrictive labor union legislation while in Congress.

And Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) told the Senate labor committee "of course he will be confirmed." Republican Senator Donnell (Mo.) said he will support Murdock.

But several GOP senators left little doubt they plan to vote against the farmer-lawyer. The opposition centered around the man who beat Murdock—Senator Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah).

At a hectic session of the Senate labor committee last night Watkins strenuously opposed the appointment. He called Murdock "an ardent pro-labor official." And he said the former lawmaker could no more administer the new Taft-Hartley labor act sympathetically than could AFL President William Green or CIO Chief Philip Murray.

The next step is for the committee to vote on the appointment of Murdock, Robert N. Denham of Washington, President Truman's choice for NLRB general counsel, and J. Copeland Grey of Buffalo, nominated as a board member.

Head for Junk Heap

As the 80th Congress edged toward the close of its first session on Saturday, a dozen major bills were headed for this year's legislative junk heap. Plans for the remaining days of the session provide for consideration primarily of stalemate appropriation bills, the army-navy unification measure and some relatively unimportant legislation.

Among the "controversial" measures on which there probably will be no action this year are the administration's request to permit war-displaced foreigners to enter this country, the Wagner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill, and a bill to provide federal financial assistance to states for education.

New Gun Toter

Fresh talk of tightening Congressional security arose after the arrest of another gun toter at the capitol right after President Truman visited the Senate. But this incident found lawmakers still wondering what can be done. The episode occurred yesterday when capitol police seized an armed former serviceman in a men's wash room in the Senate wing of the capitol. Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) said he would like to see a well-trained capitol police force "under civil service regulations" rather than the present patronage appointees who make up the unit.

Other Developments

Unification—Congress was all set to approve legislation to unify the armed services under a single cabinet officer with "safeguards" for the Marine Corps and naval aviation.

Little Marilyn Louise Cannon, who will be a year old soon, is shown a doll by her mother, Mrs. Howard Cannon, which is the approximate size of the tot on the day of her birth in Kalamazoo, Mich. At that time Marilyn weighed but 24 ounces and spent the first three months of her life in an incubator. Now she tips the scales at 12½ pounds.

Former Butler Judge Dies of Heart Attack

Butler, Pa., July 24 (P)—Former Judge Aaron E. Reiber of Butler county died of a heart attack at his home here yesterday, at the age of 84. He was stricken a week ago while on a fishing trip to Canada and was brought home in an ambulance.

Reiber studied at Washington and Senate-House conferees reached agreement last night on a compromise version of the measure. It sets up the air forces as a separate branch of service and places it with the army and navy under a single civilian cabinet member.

Petrillo—Rep. Kearns (R-Pa.) said the Treasury is studying the income taxes of James C. Petrillo, president of the AFL musicians union. Kearns said the department has asked for a transcript of testimony before a House labor subcommittee July 7 in which Petrillo discussed his income and taxes. A department spokesman said it would be "the most normal thing in the world" for the Internal Revenue Bureau to get the testimony.

Communism—Rep. J. B. Thomas (R-N.J.) said testimony of Communist infiltration in a North Carolina CIO tobacco workers local will supply the "first test" of the new Taft-Hartley labor law's ban against Communists controlling unions. The House committee on Un-American activities, which Thomas heads, heard a witness contend yesterday that 16 officials of the Winston-Salem, N. C., local were Communists. Thomas pledged that the committee will continue a search for evidence of Communist control in unions.

SEE FIRST TEST OF BAN ON REDS

Washington, July 24 (P)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) said today that testimony of Communist infiltration in a North Carolina CIO tobacco workers local will supply the "first test" of the new Taft-Hartley labor law's ban against Communists controlling unions.

The House committee on Un-American activities, which Thomas heads, heard a witness contend yesterday that 16 officials of the Winston-Salem, N. C., local were Communists. Three officials of the same union declined to tell the committee whether or not they are Communists.

Thomas told newsmen after the first test case under the Taft-Hartley act section which says that if a union is controlled by Communists it can't enjoy the rights and privileges accorded unions under the law by the National Labor Relations board.

The New Jersey legislator pledged that his committee will continue a search for evidence of Communist controls in unions. The committee called two Bridgeport, Conn., officials of the CIO Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America for testimony today.

WESTERN MOOSE MEET

Pittsburgh, July 24 (P)—A class of more than 1,000 candidates was summoned for initiation ceremonies today at opening convention sessions of the Western Pennsylvania Loyal Order of Moose association. The state champion Moose degree staff of Ellwood City arranged to conduct the rites.

Jefferson college and graduated from Princeton in 1882. Admitted to the Butler county bar in 1885, he was elected district attorney in 1890 and served as a judge from 1913 to 1923.

He was a member of the board of trustees of Thiel college and of the Lutheran Old People's Home at Zellenople. He helped organize Butler's first hospital and was one of the founders of the old Butler street Passenger Railway Co. He was president and director of the Guaranty Trust Co. of Butler from its establishment in 1901 and continued as a director of its successor, the Union Trust Co.

Coatesville, Pa., July 24 (P)—A coroner's jury blamed "improper safeguards" for the death of Louis Esworthy, 60-year-old laborer, who was killed in the collapse of a house under construction near here. The jury recommended better inspection of building operation "to prevent a recurrence."

Six Above Freezing At Kane, Pa., Today

Pittsburgh, July 24 (P)—Predictions of clear and sunny weather today followed a chilly night in several western Pennsylvania communities where record low temperatures were established for the date.

Early risers in St. Mary's, Oil City, Corry and Clarion awoke to find the Mercury hovering in the low 40's while Kane, traditionally the state's coldest spot, reported a reading of 38 degrees.

Low readings included St. Mary's with 42; Oil City with 40 and Corry with 46.

The Kane temperature was not a record breaker and a reading of 36 degrees was listed there earlier this month. Clarion underwent a sleet and snow flurry late yesterday.

Being Lost Was Fun For 2-Year-Old Boy

Philadelphia, July 24 (P)—Two-year-old Ronald Dove enjoyed being lost.

The youngster was picked up by police last night and, as Ronald sat in the backseat of a radio car smiling and waving to bystanders, the loudspeaker blared:

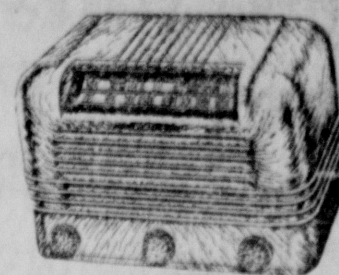

"We have a lost child, a boy, with blond hair and blue eyes, apparently about two years old, weighing about..."

A woman dashed out of a house. "Policemen," she shouted, "that's my Ronald."

UNITED STATES GIVES NOTICE ON NEW TESTS FOR ATOM WEAPONS

Washington, July 24 (AP)—A world unable to agree on international control of atomic bombs was put on notice by the United States today that:

1. It intends to conduct more tests of atomic weapons in the Pacific.
2. Top military officers in the field or nuclear fission now head a joint army-navy agency devoted to "development of atomic weapons of all types."
3. "We mean to maintain and increase the pre-eminence of the United States in atomic weapons until x x x acceptable international agreements" are reached and control machinery established.

Report To Congress
A report of the atomic energy commission to Congress contained the terse announcement of further experiments and the implied acceptance of any challenge to a world atomic armament race.

Russia and the United States made plain again yesterday at a New York session of the United Nations' atomic energy commission their diametrically opposed views on the subject of big powers veto rights over international atomic control questions.)

The armed forces disclosed, in answering a reporter's questions, something of the activities of their atomic weaponers at work on the "armed forces special weapons project."

The commission's announcement of more tests was made in this single sentence: "The atomic energy commission is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific for routine experiments and tests of atomic weapons."

Much Speculation
Commission officials refused to elaborate, but there was immediate speculation:
That the test of a third atomic bomb against warships—this one exploded two or three thousand feet under water—might be forthcoming. Such a test, scheduled originally to be held early this year as Bikini was postponed indefinitely by order of President Truman. The postponement came as world powers were preparing last fall for a meeting of the United Nations assembly and ensuing parleys.

That atom bombardiers want to know, by experiment, what the weapon would do to a simulated modern steel-and-concrete city and whether it would produce a localized but highly destructive artificial earthquake if exploded below ground.

That atomic scientists believe they have produced bombs vastly more powerful than those used up to now—but can't be sure unless some actual explosion tests are conducted.

ARCTIC RATION TEST NEAR END

Dayton, O., July 24 (AP)—Army Master Sgt. Harold Buffinbarger of Osborn, O., and Corporal Harlan Plummer of High Point, O., human guinea pigs in an arctic ration kit experiment here at Wright field, today entered their ninth day in a small chamber where the temperature is a constant 25-degrees below zero.

While the aero-medical laboratory sought to learn how the two soldiers fared physically on the rations, Buffinbarger and Plummer were dreaming about the end of their ordeal tomorrow—when they'll get 30-day passes, three days leave time for each of the 10 they devoted to the experiment.

Buffinbarger and Plummer have existed on egg-nog bars, cheese bars, chocolate malted milk bars, gum drops, soluble coffee, bouillon, water, chewing gum and cigarettes. To remain warm they've been garbed in wool sweat suits, wool uniforms, rubber mukluk overshoes, one pair of socks and furnished parkas.

In a whimsical mood they scribbled this sign on the walls of their glassed-in chamber:
"Vacancy, one room for two men, inquire within."
Nobody has.

Altoona, Pa., July 24 (AP)—Seven boys and girls, 8 to 15 years old were held by juvenile authorities today in connection with recent robberies at the Economy Association warehouse and from a box car on a nearby siding. Police Chief Paul E. Rouser, who said he expected to arrest five more youths in the same case, reported the warehouse was robbed several times.

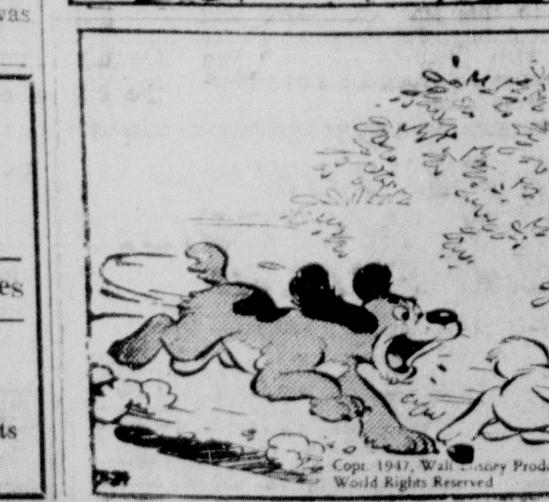

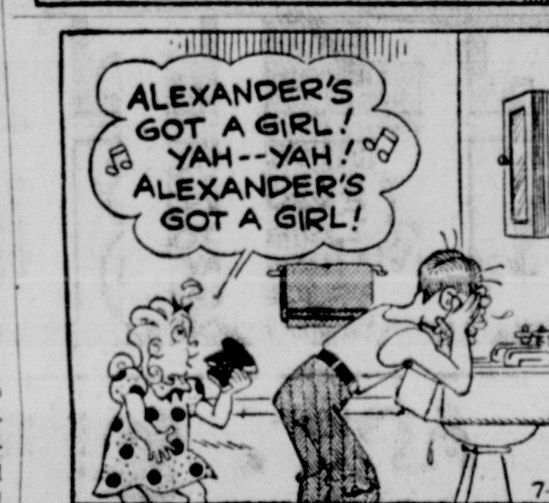

Life Of Ease Forces Prisoner From Jail

Paterson, N. J., July 24 (AP)—Charles Jackson was forced out of jail today because, his wife told Judge Milton Schenck, he found life too easy there.
Imprisoned last week on charges of non-support and neglect of his children, Jackson was hauled back into court on the complaint of his wife.
"Your honor, the way I figure it he's having a good time in jail now, doing nothing," she said. "It would be more of a punishment for him to have to come out and actually work to support me and the children."
The judge agreed, Jackson's punishment, he ruled, would be freedom.

ADmits SETTING FIRES
Pittsburgh, July 24 (AP)—Police Lt. Lawrence J. Maloney said a 17-year-old boy had admitted starting three fires last June in the McKnight hardware store, one of which caused $25,000 damage. Maloney quoted the youth, a $23 a week handyman at the store, as saying he set the fires, hoping the blame would be fixed on a fellow employee whom he accused of ridiculing him because of his shabby clothes.

DAD WINS COURT BATTLE ON JOB FOR EX-GI SON

Camden, N. J., July 24 (AP)—A 50-year-old ex-GI who called himself a "No. 1 super-duper salesman" lost a legal battle to regain his pre-war job in an advertising firm owned by his father.
U. S. District Judge Thomas M. Madden, declining to place "the stigma of ingrate" on the company, dismissed Chester L. Maxwell's suit yesterday after counsel for the father—74-year-old Robert C. Maxwell—termed the son a "No. 1 super-duper ingrate."

The younger Maxwell, a resident of Atlantic City, N. J., sought reinstatement under the GI Bill of Rights as a commission salesman with the R. C. Maxwell sheet poster advertising company.

"Treated Like Infant"
The jurist said the son had been given a job at higher pay following his army service—and then had resigned from it.

"I don't know of any part of the Selective Service and Training act that says an employer cannot run his own business," Judge Madden asserted. "I find nothing in it that takes away the right of an employer to supervise his employees as he sees fit."

During the seven-day trial, a letter written by the elder Maxwell

Austrian Prisoners Promised Freedom

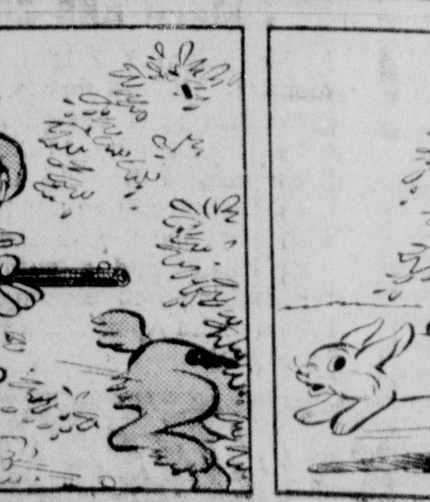

Vienna, July 24 (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Volkstimme today published prominently a letter from Soviet Prime Minister Stalin promising that all Austrian prisoners of war now held in Russia would be freed this year.
The letter was addressed to the four communist members of the Austrian parliament.
In an editorial in adjoining columns, the paper called the communication "the best news since the day of the liberation" from Germany.

"Today not only Austrian women but the entire Austrian nation," Volkstimme said, "Thank Generalissimo Stalin for his aid and understanding."

SEEK BANDITS
Sharon, Pa., July 24 (AP)—Police today sought two bandits who held up John Vasalakis, restaurant owner, and robbed him of $105 as he was locking his garage door. One man held a gun in his ribs while the other searched his pockets.

to his son in November, 1945, was introduced. It referred to Chester as "ungrateful and worthless, and a drunkard who had dissipated several fortunes."

The son's attorney, asking the court to award $3,780 back wages to the younger Maxwell, asserted "When he got out of the army, he was intimidated and treated like an infant."

ON FUTURE MAY HINGE ON ACTS IN BALKAN CASE

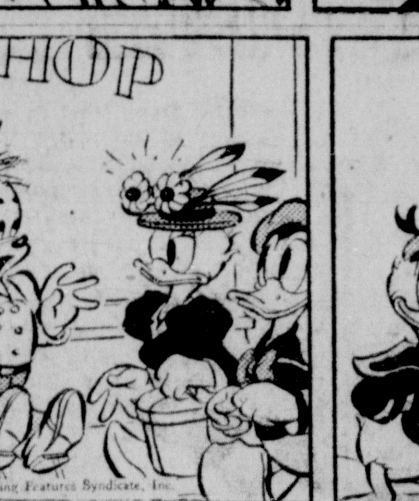

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.
Lake Success, July 24 (AP)—Certain United Nations delegates expressed belief today that the future of the World Organization might hinge on the outcome of the showdown fight between the United States and Russia over the Balkans.

Authoritative sources said that if Russia vetoes a U. S. proposal to set up an international watch over the Balkan borders Britain, the United States and other countries might feel forced to take action outside the United Nations.

Although British and American officials here were reluctant to discuss such drastic action, it was learned that the idea of establishing a border watch commission outside the United Nations was being considered as a last resort should Russia balk security council action on the Balkans.

See Crisis At Vote
There still was some hope among delegates that Russia would abstain when the council votes on the U. S. proposal for a semi-permanent Balkan border watch.

The security council scheduled two meetings today on the Balkan problem, but it appeared that a vote on the U. S. plan would not be

Communists Slay 23 In Greek Town

Athens, July 24 (AP)—A 300-man "Communist band" was reported by the Greek ministry of public order last night to have killed 23 civilians and wounded 16 in the north central Greek village of Anatolikon. Sixteen of the dead, the ministry said, were women and children.
The announcement declared that the Guerrillas were driven out by constabulary several hours later.

Anatolikon is some 30 miles south of the Yugoslav frontier in the Ptolemais region. This section is about 65 miles northeast of the Ioannina vicinity.

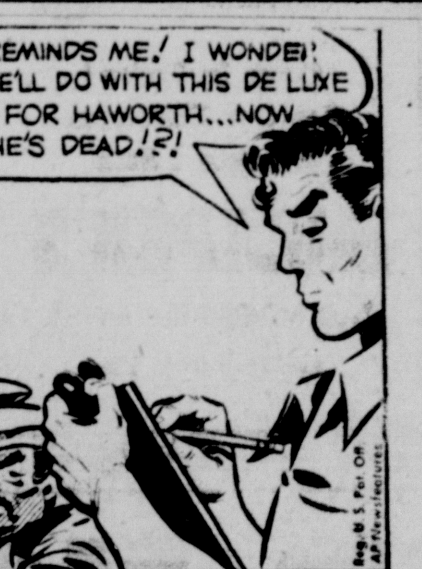

A courier of a United Nations Balkan subcommission last night said Albanian border guards at Kakavia, 25 miles northwest of Ioannina, had refused to take a written request for Albania's cooperation in a subcommission investigation of the Greek reports.

reached before next week.

There was a general feeling that the crisis would come when the vote is taken, for only then will the council members know definitely the Russian position.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko at times has indicated that he would veto the plan. At other times he has indicated that he might abstain from voting and thus permit establishment of the Balkan commission.

GUN TOTER IS ARRESTED AT U. S. CAPITOL

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, July 24 (AP)—The arrest of another gun toter at the Capitol—just after President Truman's surprise senate visit—prompted fresh talk today of tightening Congressional security.

But the second incident of its kind in 10 days found lawmakers still wondering what can be done.

The latest episode occurred yesterday when Capitol police seized an armed former serviceman in a men's wash room in the senate wing of the capitol.

Second Incident

Scarcely five minutes before Mr. Truman had left the building after making an unannounced visit and a brief speech to the senate, where he once was a member.

The washroom is off a corridor through which the President walked on his way to the senate chamber, one flight up.

The other incident occurred July 12 when a former Capitol policeman fired two shots harmlessly at Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) as the lawmaker was about to board a subway car which runs between the senate office building and the capitol. The ex-officer was sent to a hospital here for investigation.

Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Edward F. McGinnis said it was "quite apparent" that the presence of Mr. Truman and yesterday's gun toter in the building at about the same time was "purely coincidental."

Need Greater Security

Senator Myers (D-Pa.), a member of the Senate Rules committee which they are, calls for expenditures of $28,500 and an income of $30,333.12, despite a reduction of the tax from 16 mills to 13 mills.

If the schools are graded the cost will be slightly higher, Doctor Bream said. He pointed out that the present school buses could be used to transport the elementary children to the various schools according to grade, without extra cost. Instructional costs would remain the same with the only increased cost coming from additional instructional equipment that would be needed if has jurisdiction over the Capitol police, said the group "should give serious thought and consideration" to greater security, but he had no ideas on what could be done.

Senator Ives (R-NY) took a pessimistic view, saying: "If a guy is going to get shot, he'll get it whether he is in one place or another."

The former serviceman arrested yesterday was identified by McGinnis as Clifton R. H. Spires, 39, of Augusta, Ga. He served in the army for 17 months, was discharged for a disability and spent some time at a veterans' hospital in Augusta.

He was taken first to a police station and charged with carrying a concealed weapon and then was taken to a Washington hospital for examination, a routine procedure in such cases. McGinnis said the man probably would be held under observation there for 30 days.

the schools are graded "Under a graded system each teacher would have less than half the eight grades she now has and she would have twice the time to devote to each grade. As a result she should have additional materials so that more instruction can be given the youngsters," Bream said.

Have Treasury Balance

Members of the Cumberland board pointed out that the increase could be met from a balance of over $5,000 in the treasury as well as the anticipated income.

Bream then said that if the children are sent to Gettysburg the cost of instruction will be about $1,865 higher than if they are kept in the township schools. He added that in addition if the five schools in the township are closed the state will pay the board $1,000 a year for the extra cost down to $865 per year.

He added that if Gettysburg and Cumberland township were to enter into a jointure the cost to Cumberland township would probably be less per pupil than the cost of instructing in the township schools. "While I have not worked out the actual details because it was not suggested prior to the meeting this evening, in general, the cost is lower in jointures than in independent operations. The state law is designed to encourage establishment of larger school units and as a result larger reimbursement is given in jointures," he said.

New U.S.-Soviet Split Over Jap Peace Treaty Threatens Remaining Power Unity.

WORK ON PEACE TREATY MAY BE LONG DELAYED

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 24 (AP)—A new split between the United States and Russia—this time over drafting a Japanese peace treaty—threatens today to destroy what little unity remains between the great powers.

Another prospect is that it may delay indefinitely work on a peace settlement for Japan.

Up to this week there had been considerable hope here that Washington and Moscow would be able to devise some means for fashioning the Japanese treaty which would eliminate many of the frictions that have beset peace making in Europe.

Separate Peace?

Russia's rejection yesterday of American proposals along this line greatly dimmed, if it did not kill off, these hopes.

Some officials said the major question now facing the American and other governments interested in early progress on the Far East peace settlement is whether they should go ahead with a "separate peace"—that is, a treaty without Russia.

But there is a question whether this could be done legally.

While an interpretation remains to be worked out, some authorities recalled that as early as the United Nations declaration of January, 1942, the United States, Britain, Russia and other major nations at war with the axis pledged themselves "not to make a separate armistice or peace with the enemies."

Would Deny Veto

Russia was not then at war with Japan, so it is a question whether the pledge would be considered legally binding in the present situation.

The Soviet reaction to American proposals for beginning work on a Japanese treaty August 19 was announced yesterday by the Moscow radio.

The United States had proposed July 11 that 11 nations, including the great powers, should meet at Washington or San Francisco to organize the treaty drafting. A major point of the proposal was that the nations work under a system of decisions by two-thirds vote—a procedure which would deny any one nation the right of veto.

This marked a radical departure from the German and other European treaty making procedures in two respects. It included nations other than the great powers and it denied the veto privilege.

Ignored Some Points

In rejecting the proposal, the Soviets did not comment specifically on these two points.

Instead, they contended that the Japanese peace treaty, like the European treaties, should be worked out in the first instance by the foreign ministers council of the great powers of the far east—America, Britain, China and Russia.

This procedure would restore the veto because under the council's operation unanimity is required on all decisions.

Prisoner Fails In Attempted Escape

Philadelphia, July 24 (AP)—Two deputy sheriffs were injured in a free-for-all battle in the municipal court building's basement jail before a 21-year-old prisoner who broke out of custody was felled by a single bullet in his abdomen.

The prisoner, George Slater, was reported in serious condition in Hahnemann hospital today where he underwent an emergency operation less than 12 hours after the fracas. The wounded guards, Clarence Sherman and Emilio Rittacco, were treated for head and face cuts.

Albert Greenlee, assistant to the chief deputy sheriff, said it was a bullet from Rittacco's gun that stopped Slater.

The negro prisoner was committed to Holmesburg prison last June 10 for medical treatment after arrest on a forgery charge. Slater was brought to municipal court yesterday for psychiatric examination and was being transferred to a cell when he broke loose.

COUNTY FAIR AT CLEARFIELD OPENS SEASON

Clearfield, Pa., July 24 (AP)—The "County Fair," a generations old institution which annually gives the farmer a chance to show off his stock and crops gets off to an early start here next week in the 85th renewal of the Clearfield county event.

The Clearfield fair, earliest in the state this year, will open Monday and continue through the week to a gala windup Saturday night.

Also on tap are 91 other fairs which have been registered with the State Agriculture department. State Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst said the three-month season will average two to 17 fairs weekly.

In Juniata county, the P.O.S. of A. annual fair at Oriental gets underway July 30, operating for the remainder of the week.

"Agricultural products, livestock, poultry and farm machinery exhibits are expected to be the largest since pre-war days," Horst said.

Fairs are an old European custom transmitted to America by colonial settlers to provide a welcome interlude in their bitter toil of hacking a new civilization from the wilderness.

Through the years the fairs have grown from backwoods "hoe downs" affording settlers a chance to get together into a major enterprise of community life.

There's something for everybody in the farm family at the fair and everybody usually participates, exhibits stock, canned goods, produce, cookery and needlework in the hope of winning a blue ribbon. Then there are enticing diversions such as merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels and harness racing.

GEN. STACKPOLE RETIRES TODAY AS GUARD HEAD

Harrisburg, July 24 (AP)—Ma. Gen. Edward J. Stackpole retired today as commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

His retirement, retroactive to July 15, was announced by Brig. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general, less than two months after Stackpole took command of the guard after heading the 28th Infantry division.

No successor was named in the announcement.

Stackpole, president of the Telegraph Press, which publishes the Harrisburg Telegraph and long active in military affairs, said pressure of business and personal reasons dictated his request for retirement.

Reorganization On Way

He pointed out that when he accepted the task of reorganizing the postwar PNG from former Gov. Edward Martin in 1945 it was with the understanding that he would be released upon the completion of the first stage of reorganization.

That phase, he added, has now been reached with the completion of detailed training plans for the PNG's first postwar encampment at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation Aug. 9 to 23.

A veteran of World Wars one and two Stackpole completed more than 30 years in the guard, including some nine years in federal service. In World War one he was a company

Later he was named commanding officer of the 104th Cavalry, leaving it to command the 52nd Cavalry Brigade and ultimately the 22nd Cavalry Division.

During the reorganization of troops in 1940, he requested a reduction in rank in order to go on active duty with the 28th Division as a brigade commander.

After completion of the maneuver period in 1941, the 28th Division was triangularized, and he was named a general of the Panama Security Command in the Canal Zone, returning to the States in 1943 for assignment as chairman, seventh section, War Department Manpower Board, office of the chief of staff, with station at Omaha, Nebraska.

WORRY AND INDIFFERENCE

★ Overanxiety, particularly about health, is a disease in itself. Physicians call it hypochondria. Those who "enjoy" ill health only make themselves and those about them miserable.

Opposed to chronic worry is complete indifference, to the point of disregard of common-sense health rules and contempt for medical care.

Between these two absurd extremes lies the sane middle road. Petty, transient discomforts need not cause grave concern and frequent trips to the doctor. When symptoms persist or recur with annoying frequency, it is then time to seek professional assistance. Indifference under these circumstances only invites more serious trouble.

Dear Susan Brown

Chapter 24

Susan burst into a gale of laughter and John glared at her. "But it's funny, John. I can't help laughing." Then her face sobered and she added, "It's a little pathetic too. Poor Jack Mansfield! It must be terrible to be just a yes-man."

"Okay," John muttered. "If you think it's so funny, why don't you keep on laughing? You weren't there, so you didn't get the brunt of it. Steve and Mrs. Tremont and I got that. We took all sorts of insults. I'd have torn Reed apart with my hands if Steve hadn't stopped me."

Susan frowned. "Then it was really serious? It must have been dreadful."

John nodded his head vigorously. "You said it. And you still don't know the half of it. We no more than got Reed calmed down when the Murchison dame began to act up. She dashed upstairs to see if any of her precious doddads were missing."

"But of course they weren't," said Susan with false gaiety.

"Of course they were," muttered John.

"It was just another tempest in a teapot, I suppose?"

"That's what it turned out to be. But it was pretty foul while it lasted." John took a hand off the steering wheel long enough to mop his perspiring brow. "She was minus a diamond bracelet, so she said. Swore she'd left it on the basin in her bathroom—a heck of a place to leave diamonds, I'd say. We all but tore the plumbing apart looking for it. We managed to keep her from accusing any of the guests, so she compromised on accusing Mrs. Tremont and me. Gosh she's a shrew!"

"And I hope you slapped her silly face good and hard!" exclaimed Susan, thoroughly in sympathy with John but secretly glad that Linda Murchison had shown her true colors.

John threw his chest out and was suddenly the very soul of virtue. "I never strike a woman, Susie—well, almost never. Anyhow, the bracelet was found. Steve had the presence of mind to phone her apartment this morning, and the maid said it was right there on the dresser, where Murchison had left it. Gee, can that female complicate things!"

"And you say I complicate things." Susan reminded him. "I'll crown you yet, John Bates." But she smiled as she said it, then added quite seriously:

"It's a darn shame. Maybe it's just as well I wasn't there. I'm sure I'd have clawed her eyes out when she jumped on poor Mrs. Tremont. I'm sorry I wasn't there. I always did like a good fight."

"That's just the trouble with you, Susie. Why a man goes nuts about you is more than I can understand. You're too impulsive, too hot-headed."

"Oh, look who's talking! Anyhow, I'm glad I'm going back. Only I do hope Steve isn't too mad at me, and that Mrs. Tremont is not—er—indisposed."

"Oh, Steve's not mad at you." John himself seemed a little mad now, for no good reason. "You should have seen how he carried on last night when he discovered you were gone. He'd have called out the Missing Persons Bureau if I hadn't been so quick on the trigger and thought up an alibi, a little more, and he'd have burst out crying."

"Steve Gellis?" cried Susan. "Now you're joking again."

A quick glance at her companion told her that he was not joking. There was a slight edge in his voice when he said:

"The guy's in love with you, baby—or didn't you know?"

Susan caught her breath. Mrs. Tremont had said precisely the same thing. If only it were true, she thought. But of course it couldn't be.

"He can't be," she said softly. "The other night when he kissed me I thought maybe he was—but, oh, he just can't be."

John did not speak for a moment. His eyes were glued to the highway in front of them and Susan could not read his expression. It surprised her to see that his jaw was set in a hard line and that his hands on the steering wheel were trembling a little.

"Poor John," she thought. "That must have been quite an ordeal last night—what with Linda and Alan acting up, and me walking out."

Finally he spoke, but he did not look at her. "So he can't be in love with you, eh? And I suppose you can't be in love with him either?"

Her lips formed the word "No," but she could not lie to John. His unflinching loyalty deserved something better than that—never mind the cost to her pride.

"Yes," she said. "I do love him. I've loved him ever since I came to work on the magazine."

"Okay, I figured you loved him. But—well, somehow I had to hear you say it, baby."

"And he's always so matter of fact and businesslike with me," Susan wailed. "How can you say he loves me?"

John looked at her now, and the grin on his face had all the earmarks of the real thing. "Some men are like that—the dopes. I was just telling Steve last night that he was a fine one to be running a love magazine. Good grief, he needs to write a love column himself!"

burn with embarrassment at the transparency of Mrs. Tremont's remark, and she made haste, to forestall further propaganda:

"Yes—er—no. That is, it wasn't really fun. It wasn't a social date. It was a business engagement I've had for—er—a long time and could not very well get out of. I'm sorry I had to rush off like I did, but it came—er—rather unexpectedly."

She frowned, realizing that even a little white lie should be better than that. She took particular pains to avoid John Bates' eyes. He'd been so careful in his coverage of her childish escapade. Now she had muffed things completely. Right now, he must be kicking himself mentally for having defended such a dope. However, she would not have Steve Gellis thinking she had gone tearing off on a date simply to make him jealous. Or because she herself was jealous—which would be infinitely worse.

She was painfully conscious, however, that her stupid explanation, along with her hesitancy, practically confirmed Mrs. Tremont's suggestion of a heavy date. Mrs. Tremont took advantage of it too. She wagged a playful forefinger at Susan and said:

"Never mind, dear. Don't try to explain. I didn't mean to pry into your secrets. Just as long as you had fun, that's all that matters."

A cautious glance at Steve Gellis told Susan that he was looking positively ill. He must be terribly disgusted by all this silly twaddle.

"I was afraid you'd let us down," he said—a little stiffly, Susan thought. "But of course," he added gallantly, "I should have realized you weren't the kind of girl to let anybody down."

Susan flashed a helpless glance at John Bates. But before she could say anything to complicate matters, he hastened to say:

"I'm surprised at you Steve, for even thinking such a thing about Susie. The girl's regular—or didn't you know?"

"Of course she's regular," muttered Steve, and seemed rather angry about it.

A wave of color dyed Susan's face as a feeling of remorse swept over her. It was all she could do to keep from bursting into a storm of tears and blurring out the truth then and there. It was quite true that she hadn't let Steve Gellis down, but she deserved no credit for it. She had been prepared to do that very thing, with a creature who called herself Susan Brown but was nothing more than a contemptible quitter.

For the good of her own soul she felt impelled to toss pride to the four winds, make a clean breast of the whole thing and take the consequences. And yet, in doing so, she would only be letting John Bates down. John Bates, who was the grandest guy in the world, and perhaps the most regular one of them all.

She was glad when John handed Steve the letters he had brought out from the city and suggested that they all go inside. "There are a lot of pictures to be taken this afternoon," he pointed out. "So we'd better get started. Remember, this is my last day on the job, Chief, and I'm not leaving any loose ends dangling."

Except for the taking of pictures the afternoon was uneventful. The guests were astonishingly docile. It was almost as if they had suddenly sensed the strain under which the rest of the household had labored and had resolved at long last to be gracious receivers of the hospitality accorded them. Or it might be that they were just getting acclimated to long last to the luxurious surroundings and beginning to feel at ease. Or it could be—and this was something to think about, Susan decided—that her own attitude had changed. If coming a cropper had given her a better and more sympathetic understanding of people—well, her unhappy experience had not been a complete loss.

John Bates had no difficulty at all in posing his subjects, so he took enough pictures to make sure that the magazine's needs would be well provided for. Each guest would be given duplicates of all photographs. As a gesture of good will—or perversity.

haps it was his way of thumbing his impudent nose at the absent Alan Reed—John arranged that the self-effacing Jack Mansfield should pose surrounded by Reed's precious golf trophies.

Ellen Mansfield was not too gracious about it, though she voiced no protest. She stood and looked on while the picture was being made, a quizzical smile on her lips. Her expression was not unlike that of an ex-prima donna whose audience has walked out on her.

LOCAL OPTION VOTES LISTED THROUGH PA.

Harrisburg, July 24 (AP)—Approximately 225 communities in 48 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties will ballot at the September 9 primaries on the issue of local option sales of liquor and beer.

A State Liquor Control Board survey showed 163 of the municipalities will vote on both liquor and beer, 36 on liquor alone and 26 solely on beer.

The number of local option elections this year nearly quadruples the total held in the last municipal primaries of two years ago and is the greatest since 1939, when the local option went into effect.

Of the 225 political sub-divisions involved, two are cities, 94 are boroughs and 130 are townships. Among the larger municipalities deciding on the issue are Uniontown, Connellsville, Waynesburg, Huntingdon, Mt. Union, Brookville, Indiana, Lewistown, Lewisburg, Mifflintown and Red Lion.

Drys Asked Some Votes
The board said dry forces circulated about one-third of the petitions for the elections.

Approximately 544 retail liquor licenses, or 292 per cent of those now in effect in the state, are involved in the elections, and 94 beer licenses, or 4.7 per cent of the state total.

Among municipalities holding local option elections are: Adams county—Arendtsville; Cumberland—Newville, Dickinson township; Dauphin—Penbrook; Franklin—Orssett; Fannett and Metal townships, and York—Dillsburg, Franklintown, New Salem, Red Lion; Conewago; Warrington and Windsor townships.

Hollywood News

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, (P)—Today's movie producers are making a big mistake, says Ronald Reagan. They aren't making enough good westerns—and he accents the word "good."

The handsome actor and president of the Screen Actors Guild makes no secret of the fact that he yearns to gallop over movie prairies, but his reasons are more than personal.

"We are making too many 'parlor stories,'" he said on the set of "Mary Hagen," which may or may not fall in that classification.

"Movie goers have enough of their own problems today. When they go to see pictures they want some entertainment that will take them out of their locale and away from their own troubles."

Ronnie thinks the western is the answer.

"But too often," he lamented, "producers will take a story and set it in the outdoors in an attempt to label it a western. That isn't the way to do it."

His suggestion: Look into American history, where many unmovied characters with interesting and exciting stories are still hidden. But steer clear of the Civil War, he advised, because there can be but one ending to such a picture. Even Hollywood can't change that.

Reagan is campaigning to escape Warners temporarily to play "Only the Valiant," a story of the Indian wars which is owned by the Cagneys. Whether he will be headed off at the crossroads will be told in another chapter.

The foreign market is a prime concern of American producers and they must eye colleague Walt Disney with envy. His films have universal appeal and can be readily dubbed into foreign languages. I saw a couple of reels of "Bambi" in the Indian version. Not only did the characters talk Hindustani, but the background music was created by native instruments, since Occidental orchestras sound strange to the Eastern ear. It is the first time this has been done on a U. S. film and "Bambi" may be the key to the vast India market.

Hollywood isn't the only worrier about the foreign market. France, with 64 producing companies, has had no real market outside of its own country. Belgium, Switzerland, the colonies and a few small nations. The future of the French industry depends upon the ability to make English versions.

A start has been made with the Maurice Chevalier film, "Silence Is Golden." The actor will do a special prologue in which he sings the only song in the picture, then narrates the dialogue in English.

Letter to the Editor

The Gettysburg Times,
Dear Sir:

There is another who served on the staff of the Annie M. Warner hospital to whom we should give a few words of gratitude. Miss Martha McKay. She served in World War I, and also gave her service to the people of Gettysburg and Adams county.

Miss McKay was one who kept our hospital out of debt with her efficient management. She worked faithfully with Dr. J. McCrea Dickson to serve everyone, the poor as well as the wealthy. Never failing us, with their devotion to our hospital, they helped make it what it is today.

The annex to the hospital, the Musselman gift, is something of which the people of Gettysburg and Adams county should be proud. This living monument will live on to their memory.

School fires occur at the rate of more than five a day in the United States and Canada.

A shortage of Vitamin A in the diet weakens eyesight and increases night blindness.

MORE SAFETY URGED IN HOMES

"Accidents don't just happen, they are caused, usually by carelessness," Miss Mildred Tomblor, Adams county home economics representative, pointed out today, in connection with the observance of Farm Safety Week.

Declaring that every half hour two persons lose their lives and 200 are injured in home accidents, Miss Tomblor urged that every homemaker in the county take time to find and remove hazards in her own home.

Throw rugs on highly polished floors, pictures or mirrors not substantially hung, dangerous electric light cords and outlets, cluttered stairways and toys, tools, and articles dangerous to children left lying around, were listed as some of the hazards.

Miss Tomblor recommended that a first-aid kit be kept in the home. A free circular, No. 281, entitled "Practice Safety at Home," may be obtained by writing or calling Miss Tomblor at the court house here.

Erie Flood Loss Set At $5,000,000

Erie, Pa., July 24 (AP)—Damage from a record-breaking storm that flooded Erie and nearby communities with more than nine inches of rain may reach $5,000,000, city officials said today.

A large part of the debris had been cleaned up but most of this industrial community's plants which had been inundated were operating again although some were on limited production schedules. Temporary homes have been found for all but 19 of the 100 persons evacuated when the rain-produced flood was at its height two days ago. Many flooded homes were padlocked by police and health authorities until safety-cleanup measures are taken.

City officials said an earlier estimate of $1,000,000 damage was too low but pointed out the full loss could not be ascertained until all reports are tabulated.

GEN. BRADLEY RETURNING TO BATTLEFIELDS

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, the "doughboy general," is going back over there.

In a period of mounting tension in the Balkans, America's most experienced field commander is being sent to Europe and the Mediterranean soon for a six-week inspection of what is left in those regions of the army he once called the greatest in history.

This brief leave from his duties as veterans' administrator is believed a preliminary to his taking over the key chief-of-staff post in the American army upon the retirement next year of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, his wartime boss.

Sureties To Uncertainties
It will be the first return in two years for Bradley to the scenes of his victories, and he will find the situation greatly changed. What lies ahead of him on the road back?

He left Europe with the four great allies—United States, Britain, Russia and France—still celebrating the unity of a wartime triumph. He will find Europe now an arena of quarrels in which no two allies agree on what shall be done with the slowly reviving foe.

He will find there neither war nor peace—for the peace isn't yet written with the main enemy—but only a twilight compromise, under which ultimate decisions have been postponed from week to week and month to month.

He will find the sureties of the battlefield, where nations and men unite in common fear, replaced by the uncertainties of the diplomatic table, where they often drift apart in mutual distrust or under the tug of separate greed.

One Striking Unit
He will find in this remnant American army at least one unit that can strike with wartime precision and power—the mobile combat force built up by his old lieutenant, Maj. Gen. Ernie ("old gravel voice") Harmon, tank battle veteran of Sicily, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

Bradley undoubtedly will gather secret information that will be reflected in future American military planning. There would be no other real purpose in his going. But along his journey also will be many mileposts of memory he helped make famous in the second World War—Hill 609 in Tunisia, Troina in Sicily,

New Oxford

New Oxford.—Mr. and Mrs. George Sincley and their baby daughter from Flushing, L. I., N. Y., have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Sincley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hoyer, who are now residing at the former R. Van Eck property east of town. Mr. and Mrs. Van Eck and daughters, who resided there for several years, left recently by trailer

St. Lo in Normandy, the Ardennes in Belgium, the Siegfried line and the Rhine in Germany.

A Puzzle To Germany
But he probably won't get to visit the river Elbe area, where he linked up with the Russians to end the war and swapped the Soviet commander a jeep for a riding horse as a victory souvenir. Only Red troops patrol the Elbe these days.

The Soviet military leaders know Bradley's record too well to underestimate him. But he will certainly be a puzzle to the German people. Accustomed to the showy, barking goose-stepping officiousness of Prussian militarists, they will find it hard to understand this tall school-teacherish-looking man with the kindly face who has always maintained perfect discipline without ever raising his voice.

Even today few Germans realize that he is the man who contributed most in the field to their defeat on the western front. There are a lot of captured German generals, however, who know him well and respect him as perhaps the outstanding tactician of the war.

SLEUTHS TRACK STORMS IN VAST CLIMATE STUDY

By BILLY WHEELLOCK

Philadelphia, July 24 (AP)—Tracking thunder storms is the business of an army of amateur weather sleuths who are doing their part to add to the knowledge of climate.

They are the Amateur Weathermen of America who send observations of thunder storms to their mentor, Dr. David Ludlum, youthful associate director of meteorology for the Franklin Institute.

"A good pair of eyes and a watch," says Dr. Ludlum, "are the only equipment needed for membership in our club."

Have 1,200 Helpers

With that equipment, some 1,200 weather followers throughout the United States and as far away as China spot a thunder storm, note the time of the first rumble and the last, the time and direction of lightning, direction and maximum speed of the wind and, if rain follows, the time of its beginning and end. Temperature is noted and if hail stones accompany the storm, the chunks of ice are measured for size.

The weather spotters are furnished postcards on which they note their observations. The cards, addressed to "thunder and lightning" pour in daily to Dr. Ludlum at the Franklin Institute.

"Our amateurs represent all ages from 10 to 89 and some of our best members are doctors, lawyers and former members of the army and navy. We even have an undertaker," Ludlum said.

Made His Reputation

The purpose of the mass weather sleuthing project, Ludlum explained, is to supplement U. S. Weather Bureau studies, to add to general knowledge of climate for scientists, businessmen, resort operators and the general public and to tie in with radar projects of the navy, army and the weather bureau.

Ludlum, born in East Orange, N. J., has been studying weather since he was 12 years old. He was 14 when he made a forecast that put him in solid as a "weather prophet." An outdoor wedding was scheduled in his neighborhood and the rain clouds gathered. Young Ludlum scanned the storm clouds, noted the wind

East Berlin

East Berlin—The local Lions club, who were recently entertained at a banquet at Helen's Place, north of town, by the Hanover Kiwanis club, have been invited to be their guests at another banquet in the early fall, this one to be at the Hotel Richard McAllister, Hanover. The local Lions and the Hanover Kiwanis are discussing projects for relief, particularly that of blind youth, to work upon together.

Calvin Bohn, York, has been in a critical condition at his home after being taken ill recently while visiting shift and predicted confidently, "no rain today."

His prediction was right and the grown-ups hailed him as their amateur weather prognosticator.

Prizes for Pictures

Ludlum, who earns his living by making weather instruments, started the Amateur Weathermen of America with the help of Armand Spitz, former associate director of meteorology at Franklin Institute, in March, 1936.

This summer he has enrolled hundreds of youthful members in summer camps. When school bells toll this fall he will take the project into high schools and junior highs. Local clubs are forming throughout the country and former army and navy weather service personnel are taking the leadership in local organizations.

Although the postcard observations are the basic information sought in the weather project, Ludlum is asking members to make photographs of thunderheads and plans monthly prizes for the best pictures.

Have Winter Plans

Monthly bulletins published by Dr. Ludlum make the country-wide weather observations available to other members as well as to other interested persons.

Dr. Ludlum, a former lieutenant colonel in the Army Air Force weather service, planned to be a history professor and was graduated from Princeton in 1933. He won his doctor's degree in American history from that school in 1938.

When the thunder storm season ends, Ludlum plans to swing his amateur weathermen into a project to study snow storms.

"Someday—maybe 200 years from now," Dr. Ludlum speculated, "we'll be able to control the weather to some degree, but meanwhile weather watching and prognosticating can add valuable information to our knowledge of climate."

INDONESIAN WAR SHOWS DAYS OF EMPIRES WANE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

There is no dark mystery about the warfare which has erupted again between the Indonesian republic and the imperial Dutch forces; it's just another of many indications that the day of empires is fading. To understand the cause of the current crisis we must go back a bit. The revolutionary Indonesian republic has been the de facto government for the major portions of the rich islands of Java and Sumatra since the winter of 1945. Lengthy negotiations between the Dutch and the Rebels (heavily punctuated by warfare) finally resulted in an agreement whereby a United States of Indonesia, encompassing both the republic and the remainder of the East Indies, would come into being in 1949.

This new nation was to have dominion status. Holland was to retain a hand in foreign relations, defense, finance and in subjects of an economic or cultural nature. The Queen of Holland also was to be queen of the dominion. Disagreement over the method of implementing the new government is credited with precipitating the latest upheaval. However, I think we must go deeper than that. If we could look into the mind of the Indonesian we likely should encounter some such reasoning as this:

"The Dutch and the Indonesians are racially as far apart as the poles. We have little in common. The Queen of the Netherlands is a benevolent and lovable personage, but she is not one of us. The members of her government are foreigners to us. We want absolute severance from Holland, so that we may rule ourselves in these fairy lands of wealth which have been inhabited by our race for untold generations. It isn't that we like the Dutch the less, but that we like our absolute freedom the more."

That's what your correspondent believes they think. And that is the basic cause of this fresh outbreak. If we believe the writing on the wall this means that sooner or later (and probably sooner) the Netherlands must relinquish all claims on the wealth of Indonesia.

The same is true of all imperial powers, because the demand for independence is running around the world like a theme song. We are seeing its effect in the vast sub-continent of India which has been granted its freedom by England. Britain also is relinquishing Burma—now torn by a bloody internal political crisis.

Around the corner the French are

Charles and Elizabeth Ginter, Mt. battling to keep French Indo-China in line. French and Italian colonies in Africa are reaching for the sun. Egypt is demanding the withdrawal of British troops from her soil, and relinquishment of control over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. And so the story goes. Empires are as outmoded as the Georgian stage-coach.
